

Dorothy Queen To

Nettie Lemon residence (now owned by the Serrano family of Carrizozo). In 1941, Don and Dorothy and son Lawrence, Vera and daughter Carol would move to San Diego, California. The rest of the family eventually followed.

The United States was tooling up for World War II which was already raging in Europe and Asia. They were in San Diego when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor. The Queen family contributed to the war effort by working for Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation. Don was a supervisor in the machining section and Dorothy, Vera and Elynn worked in the engineering department. Ed worked for a time for Ryan Aircraft and Leonard in the ship yards. May remained at home to care for her grandchildren.

Following the war, Don and his cousin Forrest Queen entered into a general engineering and contracting business, Queen and Queen. The company thrived at first since Forrest was an Army, Airforce veteran and they got first choice in bidding on war surplus equipment. They soon bought new homes and cars in San Bernardino but eventually inflation and union problems put them out of business.

In 1949 the Queen family returned to White Oaks once again (for Ed and May it would be the last time -- they both died that year and are buried at Cedarvale Cemetery).

Don and Forrest had raised some capital to enter into a mining venture which would prove to be unsuccessful. Don then began a 22 year career with the NM Employment Security Commission where his abilities would soon see him appointed manager. He and Dorothy would live in the communities of T or C, Hobbs, Lovington, Silver City and finally Las Cruces where they retired. They had a fine home and since Don liked quality automobiles, usually Buicks and Mercedes Benz, when he could afford them . . . the Queens rode in style.

Dorothy always prided herself on the spic and span home she maintained. She was an outstanding wife and mother. Donald, her beloved husband of 48 years, died in 1976 and she would have to go on many long years alone. She and her son Donald M. moved to Carrizozo in 1978, where her sister-in-law Elynn Whitwell Cady lived and where she had friends from earlier days. Dorothy has grown old gracefully and although she suffers from many of the afflictions of old age, she bears them with the same quiet courage and dignity with which she has lived her entire life.

Dorothy attends Zia Senior Center when she feels up to it. She has always been an animal lover and has always had cats and dogs around. Dorothy has always been a strong supporter of the Democratic Party. Dorothy likes to work, read and watch TV. Her tastes run to science fiction and mysteries. She was an early fan of Star Trek. Dorothy has outlived most of her relatives and many friends. Her son Don lives in Carrizozo and she has a sister-in-law Vera Queen and niece Carol Watt and family who live in Florida.

On September 19, Dorothy celebrates her 90th birthday.

pany of Albuquerque for $47,765. The brush truck is a 4x4 fire truck with a 300 gallon water tank, has a Hale pump, four tool boxes, and a booster reel with electric rewind used to rewind fire hoses. Trustees approved signing the Preliminary Injunction Order for Capitan/Carrizozo Natural Gas (CCNG). This injunction being filed in Judge Parson's court orders Zia Gas to supply natural gas to CCNG at a pressure constant with pressure demands established in the past.

The County of Lincoln applied for permission to expand the Carrizozo Health Center. The Health Center will expand onto the property located behind the Health Center, 702 and 704 E Avenue. Trustees approved conditional use for this project.

Water treatment technician Cathie Eisen reported that water use in Carrizozo is decreasing, and that the quality of the water is constant.

Trustees also approved paving 2nd Street, next to Carrizozo Joe's, by Khani Company, the company doing the paving jobs here in Carrizozo.

Trustees approved hiring Ed O'Brien back on the police force full time.

The report from police chief Angelo Vega on the New Mexico Municipal League conference in Gallup was tabled to the next meeting because Vega was not at this meeting.

The mayor and trustee Tommy Guevara did not report on the New Mexico Municipal League conference. Trustee Cynthia Morales had also attended the New Mexico Municipal League conference but was not at the meeting to make a report.

Trustees approved the resolution for signature authorities for Severance Tax Bond.

The mayor stated at the end of the meeting that only two letters to the mayor were received.

These letters were received too late to be included in the agenda since they were personnel matters they would have to be dealt with in executive session.

CCNG Board To

(Con't From Pg. 10)

CCNG could lose its competitiveness. Beauvais said the CCNG board has maintained that its purpose is to provide its customers with natural gas at competitive prices. If the PRC upholds the higher tariff and if answers to seven financial questions to be provided to the CCNG board at the September 19 meeting show CCNG is not competitive, then the CCNG board must make a decision, Beauvais added.

"This will not be about personalities or politics," Beauvais said. "This will be about who has the best price and what CCNG will do in response to this information."

More information about the seven issues, and recent negotiations between CCNG and Zia Natural Gas about resolution of the pressure problems to the Carrizozo customers, will be discussed at the CCNG meeting which is open to the public.
